

EAGLE NEWS

REAL ESTATE BUYING AND SELLING IN COVID-19

STAY IN CLOSE CONTACT WITH EAGLE REALTY

Buying or selling a home has traditionally been a face-to-face activity that requires meeting your agent Shaun Alston in person to tour homes or evaluate your listings and close your transactions. With the COVID-19 pandemic ravaging communities and the real estate industry, one would think that real estate buying and selling has come to a stand still just like everything else. If you thought that, your could not be more wrong.

As you shelter in place, despite what you may think, business is STILL being transacted right now and buyers are still buying homes, so sellers are happy.

The housing market has shifted: buying and selling have gone virtual. Low interest rates, low inventory, high demand is good business.